

4

I take photos of mandalas in the world when I can. This is a landscape artist making a temporary beach double spiral in San Francisco.

This is a window in a house in San Francisco. It is a mandala blending the light-energy of white and blue in the spectrum through glass bricks that wiggle the image as if sun on water, illuminating a home's interior with celestial light. Nature and architecture.

Lee Bailey

